Children under the age of 13 are not allowed to use Stack Sports Services without a parent’s permission. Children under the age of 13 also may not subscribe to, or create their own account with Stack Sports. Children may only have a child account that is established by, and with the permission of, a Parent.

Parental Consent. Stack Sports is required by COPPA to use reasonable efforts to ensure that before we collect any personal information from a child, the child’s parent receives notice of and consents to our information practices. As a parent, you should know that through the Stack Sports Service children under the age of 13 may participate in activities that involve the collection or use of personal information. However, children may not participate in any Site activities without a parent’s permission.

If your child is under age 13, Stack Sports must have “verifiable parental consent” before we collect and use your child’s personal information. We do this in two ways: 1) Through the parent’s registration and payment for their child’s participation in a sport or camp; be a member of a team or club; or, subscribe to use one of the Stack Sports Services; and, 2) by acceptance of an “email invitation” sent to the parent whereby an account, profile or registration is being created on behalf of the child; or, the child is added to team or club roster; or, the parent confirms the intended purpose to use the Stack Sports Service.

Information We Collect and How We Collect It. The Stack Sports Privacy Policy and Terms of Use sets forth the information we collect for both children and those who are over the age of 13. This information is collected in the same manner regardless of age but in the instance of a child under 13, only with the Parent’s consent.

A Parent has many tools to monitor and supervise the child’s activities. For example, we allow Parents to edit their child’s profile, turn on and off notifications, monitor all postings to the site by their child or other Users using the Service. Parents should always closely monitor their children’s use of the Services.

Tracking Activities on the Site. When your child is logged into his or her account, we may track your child’s activities within the Site. For example, we track the pages visited, the length of time spent logged in, the information submitted about preferences and comments posted via the Service. This information is associated with your child’s account and may be combined with the personally identifiable information we collect from him or her.

We may partner with third parties to provide content and/or to display targeted advertisements. We will not share your child’s personally identifiable information with these third parties. However, some of these third parties may use tracking technologies, such as cookies and Web beacons, in order to track user activity. We do not exercise control over or have access to these tracking technologies or the information practices of these parties, which are subject to the privacy policies of these third parties.
